

INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' DAY

FOR DIGNITY AND JUSTICE

International Workers' Day, celebrated on May 1, 2026, serves as a reminder of the ongoing struggle against the inequalities generated by the current economic model. This system, which sometimes leaves individuals in vulnerable situations, requires our commitment and collective response.

On this day, we renew our demand for fair working conditions, just wages, and pensions that ensure a dignified life for all. Strengthening labor rights is essential, as is the eradication of all forms of union discrimination. Workers must be able to defend their rights freely and without fear of retaliation. Furthermore, it is necessary to raise our voices against international conflicts that severely affect communities.

Overcoming intolerance and ideologies of hate is key to building a more inclusive society. As we commemorate this day, we reaffirm our commitment to freedom, democracy, and peace. Solidarity among peoples is essential to advance these values.

Together, let us build a future where dignity and respect are guaranteed for all individuals.

Workers' rights should not be solely the struggle of workers; it should be the collective responsibility of society.
